

Truman Says A-Bomb Aided

Makes Comment in Answer To Hiroshima Complaint

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP)—Former President Harry S. Truman today told the people of Hiroshima that dropping the atomic bomb on their city saved many thousands of Japanese lives.

Truman made his comment in a letter to the City Council of Hiroshima which had criticized him for recent statements concerning the bombing of their city and a further assertion that hydrogen bombs would be put to use if necessary in an emergency.

Truman made public his letter to Tsukasa Nitoguri, head of the Council, at a press conference.

"There have been so many foolish statements made in regard to the bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki that I thought it best to read you my letter to the City Council of Hiroshima," he said. "When Japan surrendered, the military estimated at least a quarter of a million of the invasion forces against Japan and a like number of Japanese had been spared destruction and that twice that many on each side would otherwise have been maimed for life," Truman's letter said.

But, he reminded, the need for his decision never would have arisen had "we not been shot in the back by Japan at Pearl Harbor."

Asked if he believed that use of atomic weapons might some day be outlawed, Truman said he hoped so but that the surest guarantee was for the United States to have a better weapon than any one else. He said that gas was not used in World War II because Hitler knew we had a better and more destructive gas than they did.

He said the peaceful uses of atomic energy, particularly public power, would become a great boon to our country "if the Republicans don't give it away like they have everything else. We spent billions developing this power. It was the taxpayers' money and they should reap the full benefit of it."

In answer to a wide range of questions after reading his letter, Truman said the recession wouldn't be solved by tax cuts but by providing jobs. Tax cuts would be all right, he said, if they were given the little man, "but that is not the Republicans' way of doing things."

Asked about the Senate action in freezing farm price supports he said he agreed "that is about all they can do now without any leadership from down the street—by that I mean the White House."

Annual Variety and Style Show Presented by Smith-Cotton PTA

The Annual Variety Show and Style Show, sponsored by the Smith-Cotton PTA was presented Thursday night to a full house in the school auditorium and will be repeated tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

The variety show, "L'il Abner," was in the humorous vein, with Ken Williams talking the part of L'il Abner and looking and acting as if he might have stepped right out of the comic strip. He spoke with a slow hill-billy drawl, kept scratching his head or his ribs, and sauntered lazily when he walked.

The first song was "It's a Typical Day in Dogpatch U.S.A." and was by the chorus with short solo parts in which the characters introduced themselves. Each of them was dressed like the best-known citizens of Dogpatch, and were as follows: Lonesome Polecat, Jim Gwinn; Hairless Joe, Jim Rice; Skraggs, a quartette composed of Dale Miller, Jerry Fox, Muri Steele and Gordon Anthony; Moonbeam McSwine, Donna Lynn; Marryin' Sam, Ronnie Jones; Earthquake McGoon, Charles Robinson; Daisy Mae, Judy Warren; Pappy Yokum, Jack Clark; and Mammy Yokum, Mary Lou Cook.

Blonde Daisy Mae had one thought in mind, that of marryin' L'il Abner, and she tried to interest him in the subject even in song, when she and L'il Abner sang a duet, "Namely You." But Daisy Mae finally won out—she got L'il Abner—thanks to Sadie Hawkins Day when a man has

Doing His Bit

We heard one man say today, "I believe it's starting to warm up," as he pulled his coat collar up around his neck. It was a good try, though.

Partly cloudy tonight and Saturday; low tonight in upper 20s; high Saturday near 40.

The temperature at 7 a. m. was 33 and 38 at 1 p. m. Low Thursday night 32.

The temperature one year ago today, high 73, low 40; two years ago, high 75, low 26; and three years ago, high 42, low 28, with .26 inch of moisture.

Cities, State in Same Boat

Problem of Taxes Persists Despite Try to Avoid Topic

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Talk about taxes is poison in an election year. The special session of the Missouri Legislature is skating around the whole subject but it keeps popping up.

The tax problem came up again yesterday before a special legislative committee studying local governmental needs.

Turns out the cities are in the same shape as the state—they need more money and don't know where to get it.

Edward Staples, executive director of the Missouri Public Expenditure Survey, a taxpayers' organization, was blunt about it. He said the state can't subsidize local governmental units because it doesn't have the money. And anyway, local governments ought to have the right to solve their own problems.

That brought up one of the puzzles facing the special session—taking the ceiling off the St. Louis earnings tax. So far the bill to do that has been having heavy going although a compromise proposal is reported in the works.

Staples said the earnings tax question may be a symptom. Maybe, he said, the tax chickens have come home to roost a little sooner in St. Louis than elsewhere in the state.

He said he felt that all levels of government—federal, state and local—soon would have to face the demand for substantial tax increases.

Staples deplored the suggestion of the Missouri Municipal League that the state share some of its revenue with the cities. He said local officials should keep the responsibility for spending and raising the money to run local governments.

Bruce Carl, executive director of the Municipal League, took a different view. He said cities in Missouri traditionally have preferred to stand on their own feet but they're getting to the point where they need help.

He noted that other states share some of their revenue with the cities where much of it is collected. And he suggested it might be a good idea to allocate sources of revenue to eliminate competition between governmental levels for the same tax.

The local government study committee is headed by Sen. E. Gary Davidson (R) of St. Louis County. He said more hearings are planned after the current special session ends.

Appropriations committees get back to work Monday on the immediate problems which must be solved in the next three weeks. The long range taxation problem is expected to be put off until the regular session next year.

Shah of Iran Gets Divorce From Queen

Says She Failed To Give Him an Heir To Iranian Throne

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—The Shah of Iran today announced his divorce from beautiful young Queen Soraya because she failed to give him a son and heir to his throne.

The divorce followed weeks of negotiations with the childless, 26-year-old queen, deliberations within the Royal Council and long hours of soul-searching by Shah Mohammed Reza Pehlevi.

Soraya now is in West Germany with her father, the Iranian ambassador there.

The 38-year-old monarch and his green-eyed wife had been a devoted, almost inseparable couple, but the Shah, as a court communiqué put it, "ignored his personal feelings for the sake of the nation's high-level interests."

The communiqué said the royal advisers had urged that the heir to the Iranian throne be a son of the Shah, rather than a brother as had been suggested, because of the country's great interest and to "avoid possible future unrest."

Court sources said there was no official hint of the ruler's next bride or whether the Shah would marry before making a trip to Japan, Formosa and the United States in May. Officials said he was downcast over the divorce and probably will not marry in the near future.

Soraya reportedly had refused to remain the Shah's wife if he took another spouse in an effort to get an heir. Moslem men are permitted four wives at one time, but Soraya is the daughter of a German woman, was educated in Europe and has many Western ideas.

The Shah has one daughter by his first wife, Princess Fawzia of Egypt, but women cannot succeed to Moslem thrones. The monarch divorced Fawzia in 1948 because she, too, apparently could not give him a son.

The communiqué put Soraya's divorce settlement at $134,000. She reportedly also will keep several million dollars worth of jewels the Shah bought for her during their seven years of marriage and will get a court pension to pay her living expenses.

The handsome Shah married Soraya, whose name means "Star," Feb. 12, 1951. Since 1953 she has traveled to Switzerland several times, and the couple completed New York doctors on a 1955 visit to the United States in hopes of ending their childlessness.

For Pettis District

Snow Selected Head Of Together Dinner

The Lake of the Ozarks Council announced that T. R. Snow of Sedalia is the chairman of the Pettis District Together Dinner.

In keeping with the national emphasis of the Boy Scouts of America, the Pettis District is participating in the "Together We Grow" program. This is climaxed by the Together Dinner on March 18.

About 12 organizations, including some from LaMonte, Green Ridge, and Hughesville, have been invited to the dinner at the Coffee Pot Cafe in Sedalia. These organizations, including churches, clubs and PTA's will be guests of the Boy Scouts and will hear of the increasing need for Scout units.

The organizations will be invited to organize and use the Scouting program within their church or club. Local Scouters, headed by Snow and Duane Furnell will help each organization complete the formation of a Scout unit if they want one. Furnell is organization and extension chairman of Pettis District.

A survey being taken among Cub age and Scout age boys in Pettis District shows a definite desire on the part of boys to become Scouts and Cubs. These boys are presently unable to be Scouts because of a lack of Troops and Packs in their neighborhood. It is hoped that the Together Dinner will result in a solution to this problem.

Approximately 25 local Scouters have volunteered to work with organizations indicating a desire to organize a Scout unit. These men will meet with the representatives of organizations at the dinner to plan the steps that must follow the Together Meeting. These men will remain in contact with each organization until the Troop or Pack has been put into operation. These organizing teams have been trained by the district and through personal experience to be of the most help to those desiring to organize Troops and Packs.

Snow, chairman of Pettis District, says that "This is one of the biggest efforts ever made here to tell the story and the needs of Scouting. Scouting has long been recognized as one of the finest character-building and citizenship training movements for young people in the world. It is most important that churches, schools, clubs and others understand that the Scouting program is theirs to use as they want to use it. It should not take the place of, but should supplement home, religious and school education. It offers an opportunity for boys to put into practice the principles and ideals taught by the home, church and school."

Boys are one crop that never fails. We want them to grow straight and tall. Scouting helps organizations help boys.

More Bogus Checks Passed In This Area

More counterfeit checks written on the Sedalia branch of the Home Lumber Co. on checks for collection through the Sedalia Bank and Trust Co. have been passed, mostly in Johnson County towns. The total now has reached eight, or nine.

A third counterfeit check passed in Johnson County in the past two weeks, similar to two passed in Holden, was reported to the Johnson County sheriff's office.

The check, written on the Sedalia branch of the Home Lumber Co., was passed at the Brewster's Market in Kingsville on March 1, the same date that two were passed in Holden.

Deputy Sheriff Robert D. Williams said the man passing the check at Kingsville offered a chauffeur's license as identification, bearing the name "Mark Elliott" and with an address in Pleasant Hill. The Pleasant Hill postoffice told Williams that no such person is known there.

A series of checks has been passed in towns in this area, the one reported Wednesday being the sixth. Others have been passed in Pleasant Hill, Wellington and Clifton City.

A warning was issued to merchants in this area last week by Wayne Jaeger, manager of the Warrensburg branch of the Home Lumber Co., after Mr. Jaeger was informed by the Sedalia branch that the bogus checks were being received by a bank in Sedalia.

The checks have been made out with a check protector for $69, except for the last one reported, which was for $59. All of the checks have been signed by the name, "F. L. Barron, treasurer," or "F. L. Barron, treasurer," the next to the last letter of the name being difficult to read. The name is fictitious.

A counter signature on the checks which appears as "O.K. P.S.W.", is fictitious also.

AF Team Investigates In-Flight Jet Blast

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—An Air Force investigation team today was to try to determine the cause of a B47 jet in-flight explosion that killed the pilot and injured two other officers.

The wreckage of the bomber fell over an eight-square-mile area in a residential section, narrowly missing occupied homes.

None of the residents were injured and property damage was slight.

The Air Force identified the dead pilot as Lt. William T. Booy, 27, Kansas City, Mo. He apparently was trapped in the nose section of the craft.

Injured were Capt. Albert J. Soen, 35, Wichita, Kan., an instructor-pilot, and Capt. John H. Gillick, 32, student pilot on temporary duty at McConnell Air Force Base, Wichita. Both men ejected before the craft disintegrated in flight.

Fight Breaks Out Again In Mid-Sumatra

Rebel Radio Report Says Military Head Ousted in Tapanuli

SINGAPORE (AP)—Fighting broke out again today between Jakarta government troops and rebel forces near Pakanbaru, the oil center in central Sumatra, the rebel radio reported.

The government of President Sukarno announced yesterday that paratroopers had captured oil fields of the American firm, Caltex Co., after seizing Pakanbaru. The rebels later admitted they had withdrawn from the town of 50,000.

The broadcast from the rebel mountain capital of Bukittinggi also said Tapanuli province in north Sumatra, which previously had remained uncommitted in the struggle between the Sukarno government and the outlandish rebels, had ousted its military commander appointed by Jakarta.

Premier Djuanda had claimed earlier today that American made arms and ammunition were dropped to the Central Sumatran rebels a few hours before Central Government troops captured the oil center of Pakanbaru.

"The arms could have been purchased from the United States by private persons who have become stooges of the rebels," he told newsmen.

Storms Leave Blanket Across Eastern Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Late winter storms left a blanket of snow across wide areas in the Eastern half of the country today, with falls ranging up to nearly a foot in some areas.

Thunderstorms and strong winds hammered areas in the Southeast during the night but appeared abating.

The mid-March storms swept from the Plains eastward along the Ohio River and moved into Eastern sections of the nation.

More than 9 inches of snow was reported in Cumberland, Md. Heavy snow also fell in eastern West Virginia, with up to 7 inches in some places.

Falls ranged from 4 to 7 inches in a narrow belt from southwest Ohio through eastern sections of Ohio and across the central and southern parts of Pennsylvania. From 1 to 3 inches fell in parts of Virginia and New York state.

The snow headed into New England and was expected to continue in most of the Northeast during the day.

At least nine deaths were blamed on the stormy weather. These included five in highway accidents in Kentucky and one in Maryland. Deaths due to over-exertion while shoveling snow included two in Ohio and one in Kentucky.

South of the snow belt, rain fell in the Carolinas and Florida and southern Virginia.

Participating Churches: WE NEED OUR CHURCHES

Baptists believe, first of all, that churches are spiritual institutions with a spiritual mission in the world. That mission is to show man the way to get rid of SIN and find peace with GOD through personal faith in Jesus Christ.

Churches also have the practical value of helping maintain decency and order in their community. No one would like to live in a community where there was no church or Christian influence, yet many people live in our community that seemingly give very little thought for the welfare of the only institution God has ordained to save people from their sin.

This is accomplished through the shed blood of the Son of God, our Lord Jesus Christ whom we proclaim.

Sedalians Will Attend Circuit Meet

Walter H. Meyer, presiding minister of the local congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses announced that 13 delegates from Sedalia and vicinity will join an estimated 500 ministers at their Circuit Assembly in Presser Hall, Mexico, March 21-23.

The theme of the three-day assembly is "Fulfilling Our Ministry." The assembly will instruct delegates in the practicality of Christian teaching. Dedication to Jehovah God, symbolized by complete water immersion of candidates, will be performed Saturday.

The highlight of the assembly will be at 3 p.m. Sunday, when R. L. Anderson, district supervisor of the international headquarters of Jehovah's Witnesses in Brooklyn, N.Y., delivers the discourse, "Facing the Future Without Fear."

Featured on the Saturday morning program will be Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Meyer and Mrs. Roy Brodersen of the local congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses.

At the assembly, panel discussions and staged dramatizations will be presented to emphasize training for the ministry. The delegates will have an opportunity to put these suggestions to use by calling on Mexico residents, Jehovah's Witnesses are enrolled in a lifetime training program that includes four one hour meetings weekly and much personal study to prepare for their preaching work.

This is the largest budget in the history of the congregation.

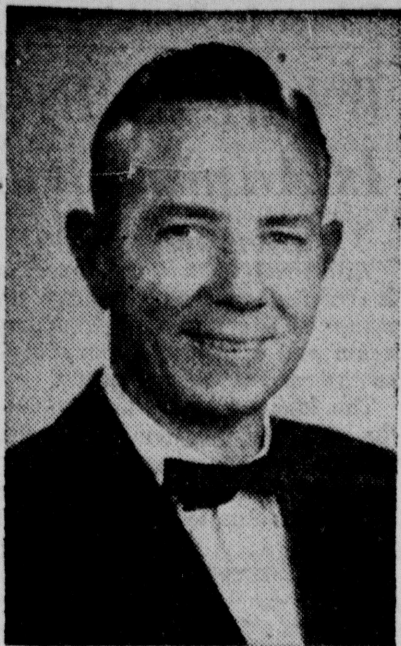

The Rev. Harry Purviance will preach Sunday on the subject, "The High Cost of Christian Living." Special music for the service includes an anthem by the Chapel Choir at the first service entitled, "Cast Thy Burdens on the Lord," by Mendelssohn, and an anthem by the Chapel Choir entitled, "My Sheep, Hear My Voice" by Rogers at the second service. And more than anything else, we want to be ourselves, lead our own lives, pay our own debts, provide for our own families. We all have an abiding need to be ourselves. If a man is to be himself in any real sense, he must accept the responsibility of self respect and the burden of achieving a fuller life. I believe we join in this concept, and that the decent, prudent person today looks upon life insurance as the most effective and dependable means for helping him fashion and live a way of life which is his own and which brings abiding satisfaction.

"I Led Two Lives....."

Someone with script-writing ability ought to work up a story for the TV entitled "I Led Two Lives."

The theme would be based on the contradictory life a man leads today in the alternate role of motorist and pedestrian.

Some sunny day when one finally arrives this spring take time out to watch your motorist friends at the Third and Ohio intersection. Sooner or later you'll see them again as pedestrians at the same corner. By cracky, you'll notice that in either role they want traffic priority.

One of the common driving habits is blocking of cross-walks at intersections thus forcing pedestrians to walk around automobiles by stepping out of the pedestrian lanes. This usually results because motorists crowd a changing light and overshoot the stop line.

The same guys when on foot and encountering similar circumstances created by other motorists, glare and go half berserk raging at those crazy motorists. But when they are in their own auto, pedestrians watch out!

All of which is wholly unnecessary. A little more consideration and courtesy is required from the individual no matter in what role he is acting—motorist or pedestrian. Overshooting the pedestrian lanes especially where automatic signals operate, can become a habit without reason. The individual should restrain himself. The same goes for failing to come to a full, not a sliding, stop at intersections where a red signal light is flashing.

One thing motorists should remember—under the law pedestrians have the right of way. In case of accidents the motorist involved usually comes up on the short end.

That does not suggest the pedestrian should be impudent, daring or indifferent about his own welfare when he steps from the curbing to cross a street.

Such a careless person may have played a character in the play, "I Led Two Lives," until that day, either as a motorist or pedestrian, he becomes the victim of a tragic accident, and truly becomes past tense.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Lobby For Everything Except Children

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—This town is full of lobbyists. They are a dime a dozen in the halls of Congress and the cocktail lounges of Washington. Some are out to get tax concessions for the life insurance companies. Some are out to promote more federal housing appropriations. Some are out to block oil imports into the United States.

But none of them are out to lobby for the children of the United States.

For approximately 10 years there has been talk about passing a school bill, but only talk—no action. Chief reason for the lack of action: No lobby is pushing a school bill.

Children aren't lobbyists, and most teachers aren't either. Up until this year their National Education Association has been sitting on its heels in Washington, twiddling its intellectual thumbs without taking an energetic stand on school aid.

What they don't realize is that the big highway bill for $18 billion was passed because of lobbying by the Teamsters Union, the big tire and truck companies, the oil and gasoline companies. They combined into a lobby which Congressmen couldn't resist.

Teachers could do the same. They could get the Carpenters Union, whose members need employment, the Bricklayers Union, the other building trades, the building contractors, to combine in pushing a school construction bill.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson goaded the administration into action on a public works program. Public works are needed to end the depression, and one of the most important public works built in Roosevelt's day was school buildings.

Note—Harry Truman once said: "The public doesn't have anyone to lobby for them." Ike, however, isn't doing it in regard to schools.

"No Autograph" Ike
It took two phone calls from the White House, plus an hour's personal call from a presidential assistant to say that President Eisenhower would not give a congressman an autograph.

It all happened when Congressman Jack Dingell of Detroit received a request for the President's signature from Jim Ritchie in Cedar Springs, Mich.

"I don't know if you see the President or not," Ritchie wrote Dingell, "but someone told me that you received letters with the President's actual signature on them." Ritchie asked the congressman to send him a letter signed by Ike.

The Detroit Democrat explained that members of Congress rarely, if ever, receive direct communications from the President in this administration. They got plenty from both Roosevelt and Truman.

"The letters I have received from the White House during the present administration have all been signed by one of the President's assistants," Dingell wrote. But he said he would send Ritchie's letter to the White House with a request that an autograph be supplied.

At the White House, Dingell's request produced a flurry of activity and after about 10 days a formal reply from a presidential aide, Jack Z. Anderson.

"I am sure he (Ritchie) will realize that if the President did this in response to every request he would have little time left for the more serious business of running the government," Anderson wrote.

On February 28 Dingell reported this to his constituent.

"I have received two calls from members of the White House staff and a personal visit from

POTTSVILLE (PA.) REPUBLICAN: More Failing Marks. "If education is to improve, more school children should be given failing marks."

This statement was issued by Barnaby C. Keeney, president of Brown University. He added, "This cannot be done as long as a silly theory of child development continues to force the schools to behave as if admission of failure were worse for the child than pretense of success."

An adult has to become accustomed to taking setbacks in life. So must a young person be ready to accept a report of failure if he hasn't measured up to standards.

Good grades are emphasized by parents and teachers alike. But they should certainly be given only when merited.

A child who receives grades which he did not actually earn may be going along on a smooth road, at least it will appear that way to him. When he leaves school only then will he find out how accurate were his grades and what they actually meant . . .

Mr. Jack Anderson, administrative assistant to the president," wrote Dingell. "Mr. Anderson is an old friend of mine and a most personable and decent gentleman. He spent the better part of an hour explaining to me that if your request were acceded to, every other citizen would have a right to the presidential autograph."

"I assume that this is the President's position and must confess that I am somewhat astonished at the trouble they went to to avoid getting the President to comply with your request."

"It appears, in view of the amount of time and taxpayers' money spent to avoid giving you a presidential autograph, that it would have been much cheaper and easier for the President to pause at the first tee long enough to sign a card to be sent to you."

Smart Attorney General
It's beginning to dawn on members of the Harris investigating committee that handsome young Attorney General Bill Rogers may have outsmarted them. Bill is a past master of investigating. He trained first under Tom Dewey when Tom was a young crime-buster. Later, in Washington, Rogers investigated Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, John Maragon, and various influence-wielders. In those days he was smart enough to be hired by Democrats even though investigating Democrats.

Today as attorney general, Rogers has called a grand jury to probe scandals in the independent agencies—which was his duty. But in doing his duty, he may have also saved some of his friends around the White House such as Sherman Adams from embarrassing testimony before the Harris committee.

For a grand jury has precedence over a congressional committee, and courts have also held that testimony taken by a congressional committee cannot be used, constitutionally, in a subsequent criminal prosecution.

Therefore, Thurman Whiteside, the alleged Miami "fixer," had the law behind him when he refused to appear before the Harris committee because he was to appear before the grand jury.

Sherman Adams faces no criminal action and therefore can't plead the Fifth Amendment. But he probably can get out of testifying before Congress on the ground that the general questions being investigated are before the grand jury.

Moral: It's a smart attorney general who not only does his duty but simultaneously saves the administration embarrassment.

Sign of the Blue Bell

The blue bell which indicates the presence of a public telephone is a familiar sign on the highways and byways, but the American Telephone and Telegraph Company only recently acquired the right to use it officially.

Although the blue bell has been used as a service mark since 1889, it was only after considerable litigation that the telephone system won the title to it.

There were two stumbling blocks. First, the company had to pay $18,000 (a mere pittance) to Raymond L. Smith and his wife, operators of an answering service in Washington, D.C., to abandon a blue bell mark they had registered.

Second, the A.T. & T., after having filed the application, was informed by the patent office that a company in Columbus, Ohio, had two trademarks filed by Bell & Sound Systems, Inc. Interference proceedings followed which were recently decided in favor of A.T. & T.

Even with Judy Holliday's answering service in the current Broadway hit "Bells Are Ringing" she must know for whom the sign of the little blue bell tolls. It tolls for A.T. & T.

The name "Johnnie Crapaud" sometimes is used to personify the French nation.

Depression Changes American Thinking

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—It wasn't always like this. No one's shocked when Democrats and Republicans talk of a possible tax cut and red ink spending to fight the recession. It took a depression to change American thinking.

Back in 1929 when the depression was starting—although few recognized it—Democrats and Republicans were thinking in terms of a balanced budget. Meaning: that government spending should not exceed government revenue from taxes.

On Nov. 13, 1929, Secretary of Treasury Andrew Mellon—spokesman for the Hoover administration—asked and got from Congress a tax cut for individuals and corporations. This wasn't an antidepressant step. Far from it. President Hoover and Mellon had wanted such a cut for months. So on Nov. 13—just a few weeks after the fatal stock market crash in October—their views hadn't changed. This was their reason for wanting the cut:

They thought the government would be getting more revenue from taxes than it needed. Mellon even issued a statement expressing confidence "prosperity" would continue. It did just the opposite. By 1932 around 10 million were unemployed.

Then Hoover and Mellon asked Congress for, and got, a tax increase. Their reason this time: that with the depression spreading and revenue from taxes falling off, the budget would be unbalanced.

Congress—with Democrats controlling the House and Republicans the Senate—granted the request. It seems strange now that they would siphon off more spending money from people at a time when more spending was needed.

But neither party wanted an unbalanced budget, even to fight the depression. That same year, 1932, the Democratic campaign platform promised a balanced budget and a reduction in government spending.

Franklin D. Roosevelt promised the same thing in his presidential campaign that year. He did leave himself an out, however: in a speech at Pittsburgh he said, if people were starving, he'd let the budget go hang and spend.

He was a little mixed up at the start on how to fight the depression. At his request Congress granted him authority to fire a number of government workers and reduce veterans' pensions.

This was at a time when unemployment was staggering, and firing people only added to the chaos. It wasn't long before he launched out on huge red-ink government spending to create jobs and boost the economy. The budget has been balanced in only four of the years since then.

In the years between 1933 and 1939—when the defense program started and it gradually became necessary to slap taxes on practically everyone—the people in the lower income groups were pretty much left untouched by tax boosts.

But in that same 1933-39 period Roosevelt asked for and got increased taxes on business, on individuals in the higher income brackets, and, among other things on states.

Right now because budget balancing in government is a sound way to operate—if at all possible—the Democratic and Republican leadership is hesitant about cutting taxes. They talk of waiting to see if the recession gets worse.

If it does, there seems no doubt both parties will approve a tax cut on individuals, and probably on corporations, and for this reason: to provide people with more money to spend.

Democrat Pick-ups

Odds and Ends
By News Staff

IT ALL STARTED with a letter from a former Sedalia woman who wanted to do something different for the Garden Club display in the town where she now lives and wrote to a friend here. It was something about mothballs in a glass of water into which something had been added and she wanted to know what to add.

The woman receiving the letter called the flower shop where this had been popular some years ago, but it was too many years ago for the florist to remember just what he used in the water. He and the woman both remembered the mothballs made little bubbles around the flowers giving them a sparkling look and sometimes big drops of water formed like dew. It was very pretty—but what they used with mothballs he just didn't know.

Then the woman began calling Garden Club members and one would refer her to another. Finally she called one who told her she didn't know but she would find out and she did. She asked another Garden Club member who kept a book on such things. The things to be added were soda, vinegar or citric acid.

At a party the woman was telling about the time she had trying to find out what was used with the mothballs.

Some of the other women had never heard of such a use for mothballs and they were very interested and curious. "What does it do to the mothballs?" one of them asked.

"It makes them jump up," the woman replied.

"How high do they jump?" someone else wanted to know. "To the top of the water," she said, "then they go down and come up again."

The party was indeed at the wrong place. There were no mothballs in the house and it was a very rainy, cold night, so nobody wanted to go after any. They merely took her word for it that it was very unusual and pretty and that cake coloring could be used, too, if desired, to color the water.

Now that the woman away from here had remembered about it and such a stir was caused by trying to find out what to put with the mothballs and the water, there may be a boom in the sale of mothballs around here with people buying them just to see what happens when you put mothballs in water and add a little soda, vinegar or citric acid.—H. Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Piefenbacher, D.D.

Much of the recent advertising which is displayed on television, on billboards, and elsewhere has been displayed with a bright smile. Many of the scripts are read with a lit of happiness and uplift. This smile on the face, in the voice, and in the heart of the actor sells products or it would not be used so widely.

If this is true in selling soap, food and automobiles, perhaps it could be used to promote our interest in religion. After all, God is more satisfying to men than are the products of industry.

Those of us who are happy in our fellowship with God ought to wear smiles of satisfaction as real as God. Our lives ought to glow with God's shining presence. Our eyes should encourage others, to seek the inner love and power which have found their way into our existence.

Where to 'Prime the Pump' Is Administration Puzzle

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON — The question is where to begin priming the pumps to start money circulating again and start the country back on the road to full prosperity.

The idea of trying to stimulate the home building industry for this purpose has been gaining adherents. Even the Eisenhower administration seems to be leaning that way.

This is indicated by the new bill prepared by Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole, as an offset to the more liberal measure introduced by Senate Housing Subcommittee Chairman John Sparkman (D-Ala.).

The argument of housing lobby leaders is that a 25 per cent pickup in their business, to bring it back to 1935 levels, would mean 100,000 more jobs on-site and another 100,000 jobs off-site for their lumber and materials supply.

Furthermore, since every new housing unit means another $1,500 in purchases of furniture and household goods, still another 100,000 jobs might be created indirectly.

The advantages which a housing boom would have over a big public works program, as a quick stimulus to business, are obvious. Home building is mostly small business. It is widespread. There is need for additional housing in almost every part of the country. New housing can be started on short notice, with comparatively little planning.

Big public works programs, on the other hand, take 12 to 18 months to get started. There must be elaborate planning. Projects can be started only at carefully selected sites. And not very community in the country could be benefited.

Even highways take longer to get started. They require elaborate surveys and often lengthy proceedings on site acquisitions before actual construction can begin.

For this reason, highways and public works are being considered as second and third steps in the recovery program. They would be used only if the recession is protracted.

For still other reasons, the idea of using a tax cut as a first business stimulant has been losing support.

Even the Joint Congressional Economic Committee recommends no tax cut unless monetary controls, credit expansion and government spending programs fail to stem the recession.

Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) files a lone dissent on this point. He believes that a one-year, $100 increase in personal exemption or a cut of from 20 to 15 per cent tax on the first $1,000 of net income would start spending again.

As a further stimulus to spending, Senator Douglas would also repeal federal excise taxes on household appliances, leather goods and a few other consumer items.

The objection to the Douglas tax cut proposals is that they would give the average family only about $20 to $50 more purchasing power a year. This isn't even a down payment on a new car. And the auto industry needs help, too.

In the aggregate, the $100 increase in personal exemption would cost the Treasury an estimated 2.75 billion dollars. The 20 to 15 per cent tax rate cut on the first $1,000 of net income would cost the Treasury an estimated 3.5 billion.

If federal tax receipts are out that much, the budget will be further unbalanced and the government will have to go that much deeper into debt. Interest costs alone on this much more debt would be 80 to 100 million dollars a year. The effect would be inflationary.

The three billion dollars, more or less, which go into a tax cut is just about the size of this year's expanded missile production program. If the government spends this money, much of it would be for payrolls. It would be spent, ultimately, to stimulate business just as tax-cut money would be spent, though not by so many people.

If, however, some of this money could be channeled into depressed areas like cut-back auto production centers, it would be a real stimulant. More attention to depressed areas two and three years ago, as Senator Douglas and others proposed, might have "evened out" mitigated the present general business distress.

Republican Women To Study Techniques of Campaigning

By Esther Van Wagoner Tufty

WASHINGTON — Republican women leaders from every state will foregather in Washington from March 16 to 18 to give momentum to their slogan "Work Now-Win in November" for the 6th annual Republican Women's National Conference.

The climax will be the luncheon on the 18th when President Eisenhower will speak.

The Missouri delegate is Mrs. Noreen Mills of Kirkwood, representing the second district, now served by Republican Thomas Curtis of Webster Groves.

The importance of "marginal districts" (those in which the winning candidate receives less than 50 to 55 per cent of the vote) will be stressed at the conference.

Miss Bertha Adkins, Assistant Chairman of the Republican National Committee, declares that "By concentrating on the marginal races we will see the importance of the individual vote and be inspired to work harder to get more Republican votes all along the line for GOP candidates in town, county, and state elections as well as for Congress."

Other Republican women attending will include clubwomen, national committee women, state and local women party officials, Young Republicans and volunteer workers.

Included also is a "Republican Women's School of Politics" with classes in campaigning in urban, suburban and rural areas.

Among the speakers will be Secretary of Treasury Robert N. Anderson, Attorney General William P. Rogers, Assistant Secretary of Labor Newell Brown, Dr. Lawrence G. Derthick, Commissioner of Education, and Henry Cabot Lodge, U. S. Ambassador to the United Nations.

Vice-President and Mrs. Richard Nixon will greet the ladies at a Sunday reception.

Prior to the sessions, the National Federation of Republican Women will hold a board of directors meeting, March 13-15. The Federation is headed by Mrs. Peter Gibson of Monroe, Mich. and the coming meeting will bring here State presidents, national officers and committee chairmen. This group will remain for the conference.

Kiwanis Club Backs Plan Of Recreation

An expanded all-ages recreational program for Sedalia was endorsed by the Sedalia Kiwanis club and a committee of volunteer members to promote it was approved by the Rev. Edward R. Sims, president, at the meeting in Bothwell Hotel Thursday noon.

George Ray, chairman of the Boys' and Girls' Work committee, was designated chairman of this group which will seek the interest and cooperation of other Sedalia organizations.

The action was vigorously spontaneous following a talk by President Sims and his showing of a film, entitled "Leaders of Leisure," which portrayed what a community can accomplish, under trained professional recreational leadership. The speaker is active in a group which has interested itself in the recreational aspects of Sedalia community life, and is attempting to promote fuller use of Sedalia's present facilities and development on additional ones.

An animated and favorable discussion of this project for Sedalia immediately followed the program and Kiwanians indicated their intent to participate actively in bringing it to public attention.

William Ward was program chairman.

James M. Ryan, chairman of the attendance committee, announced a Kiwanis attendance contest had been arranged to start March 27 and continue through the first two weeks of June. Club members have been classified into four teams. The three losing teams will entertain the winning team with a dinner and the team having the least score will serve the dinner.

Invocation was by the Rev. Walter Niles. Singing was led by Russell Maag with Miss Lillian Fox, accompanist.

Guests were: Dr. T. Spencer Hopkins and Neville Jonson with William Dugan, and Jack Cannon with R. E. Mullen.

Patrolman Shoots Girl Aiming Pistol

TOPPENISH, Wash. (AP) — A rookie patrolman shot a 16-year-old girl to death at a crowded bus station yesterday as she aimed a pistol at him.

Sandra Lingscheid, only child of a Columbia Basin irrigation project farm couple from Eltopia, Wash., was killed by two .38-caliber slugs which tore into her left chest.

She had ignored three demands to throw down her gun.

The girl and a companion, Janice Teel, also 16, of Pasco, Wash., had been stopped as runaways as they alighted from a bus.

Patrolman Richard Stevens, 33, told Police Chief Earl Phillips he had no recourse but to shoot the girl whose gun posed a threat to the some 50 persons crowded into the small bus depot in this south central Washington city.

Phillips, Deputy Sheriff Harold Guthrie and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Callahan, operators of the bus depot, all commended Stevens, who joined the police force only 10 months ago.

Phillips said Stevens was "carrying out my orders and acting in defense of his own life."

Top Teams Join Unranked Quintets In Cage Tourneys

The Associated Press—Ten of the nation's top teams, four of them former champions, join six unranked quintets tonight in college basketball's title-seeking parade.

The NCAA has the big-school field all to itself today in four regional tournaments. The NIT in New York takes a day off after opening round victories by St. John's of New York and St. Joseph's of Philadelphia.

Among the small colleges, two upstarts, South Dakota and St. Michaels of Vermont, meet in Evansville, Ind., for the NCAA small college crown after upset victories in the semifinals.

In Kansas City, the semifinals of the NAIA match defending champion Tennessee State and Texas Southern in one game and unbeaten Western Illinois and Georgetown of Kentucky in the other. The winners meet Saturday night for the championship.

Tonight's NCAA double-headers at Charlotte, N.C., Lexington, Ky., Lawrence, Kan., and San Francisco will reduce that field to eight. After the regional finals Saturday, only four will remain to battle it out at Louisville March 21-22.

Indiana, Oklahoma State, Kentucky and San Francisco are the former champions among the NCAA contenders but they are not involved in the two big games on tonight's card.

One is the clash at Lawrence between high-scoring and second-ranked Cincinnati, starring All-American Oscar Robertson, the nation's No. 1 individual point getter, and third-rated Kansas State, led by talented Bob Boozer.

The other is at Charlotte, where All-American Guy Rodgers leads the fifth-ranked Temple Owls in quest of their 24th straight victory (they have lost two) against sixth-ranked Maryland, surprise winner of the Atlantic Coast Conference's playoff tournament.

Lawrence — Cincinnati, No. 2 (24-2), vs. Kansas State, No. 3 (20-3); Oklahoma State, No. 19 (20-7), vs. Arkansas (18-8).

Charlotte — Maryland, No. 6 (21-6), vs. Temple, No. 5 (24-2); Manhattan (16-8) vs. Dartmouth (21-4).

Lexington — Kentucky, No. 9 (19-6), vs. Miami (Ohio) (18-7); Notre Dame, No. 8 (23-4), vs. Indiana, No. 12 (12-10).

San Francisco — San Francisco, No. 4 (25-1) vs. Seattle, No. 18 (20-5); Idaho State (22-4) vs. California (18-8).

St. John's got off on the right foot in the NIT after a slow start by downing Butler 83-72. St. Joseph's moved up with an 83-72 conquest of St. Peter's of Jersey City.

The semifinals of the NCAA small college tourney produced the big surprises. South Dakota tripped defending champion Wheaton, winner of 27 of its previous 28 games, 66-40. St. Michael's turned back highly regarded Evansville 78-70.

The NAIA ran mostly true to form as Western Illinois chalked up its 26th successive victory with a 70-67 decision over Youngstown and Tennessee State whipped East Texas 81-62. Texas Southern gained the round of four by turning back Coe 98-78 and Georgetown upset West Virginia Wesleyan 83-74.

Friday Cage Play Decides State Champ

ST. LOUIS (AP) — St. Joseph Central plays Maplewood and Christian Brother College High takes on undefeated St. Louis University High tonight in the semifinals of the tournament to decide Missouri's best large high school basketball team.

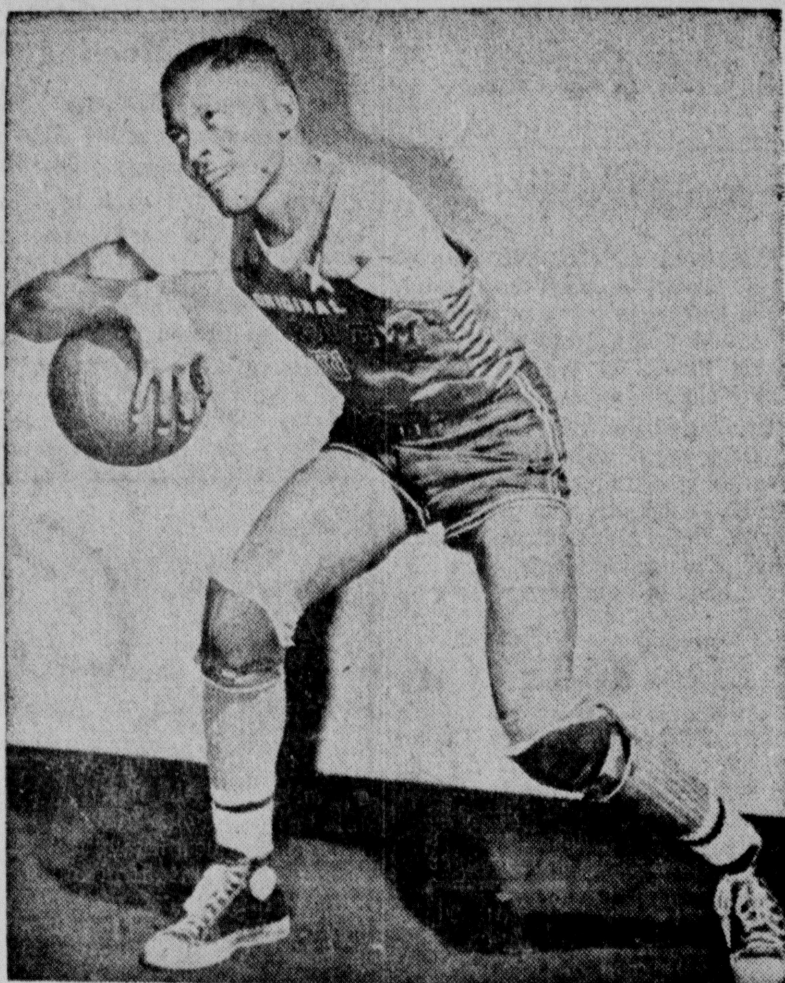

Two 1957 state champions fell by the wayside in the Class L state tournament yesterday.

St. Louis University High (26-0) won its quarterfinal game against Pembroke Country Day of Kansas City 75-49. Pembroke, playing in its first Class L tourney, won the Class M tournament for medium sized schools last year. Tom Kiefer led the bills with 22 points.

St. Charles, the 1957 Class L champion, was downed by the CBC Cadets from St. Louis 54-46 in overtime, with Phil Noser and Jerry England pouring in most of the extra period points for the Cadets.

St. Joseph Central outclassed Jennings 63-38 in the final contest last night. Don Blakeley scored 18 points for St. Joseph. His eight free throws included five straight in the second period. Kurt Brown had a seven-point streak at one stage of the game.

Maplewood had to come from behind to defeat Crystal City 46-44 in the other quarterfinal. Gene Huff led the Leafs with 19 points. The score was deadlocked at 38-38 all half way through the final period.

WITH HARLEM STARS—Meet Boyd Buie, one-armed sensation who will be appearing with the Harlem Stars at Convention Hall, Liberty Park, against the College All-Stars tonight.

Tatum's Stars Will Play Here Tonight

A razzle-dazzle, fun-filled show is in store for area basketball fans tonight when the Harlem Stars, headed by the great Goose Tatum, clash with a touring College All-Star quintet at Liberty Park's Convention Hall. The exhibition game will get underway at 8 p. m.

Tatum, often referred to as "Mr. Basketball," has scored more points than any other player in American history, besides drawing more laughs than ten Hollywood funnymen with his zany on court antics. The former star of the world renowned Harlem Globetrotters, Tatum is the owner-manager of the Stars. He has played in Sedalia previously—back in 1948 when the Windsor Red Raiders met the Globetrotters in an exhibition tilt.

Backing Tatum is Marland "Showboat" Buckner, the outstanding product of Lincoln High of Kansas City. Buckner, a mere 5-foot-2, coaches the Harlem Stars. He is among the game's best ball handlers and dribblers. Buckner's point totals are usually the result of deadly set shots and hard driving lay-ups.

Boyd Buie, a 6-foot-2 forward from Los Angeles, Calif., is the only one-armed player in professional ranks today. The former Tennessee State College star has been one of the top players for the Harlem club this season. He is the team's captain.

Among others on the Tatum squad are Elzie Lewis, 6-foot-2 jump shot artist from R. T. Coles High in Kansas City; Rollie Harris, 6-foot-7 pivot man of Columbus, Ohio; Lester Burks, 6-foot-6 forward of Little Rock, Ark.; and Frank Washington, 6-foot-5 forward from Philadelphia.

The Harlem Stars have appeared in the Boston Garden, the Chicago Amphitheater, Kiel Auditorium of St. Louis; the Cow Palace of San Francisco; and Municipal Auditorium of Kansas City during the past year. This is the team's first visit to Sedalia.

Delany Gets Another Try At Mile Mark

CHICAGO (AP)—Ron Delany, Ireland's swift-striding gift to Villanova University, gets his next-to-last 1958 try at the world indoor mile record in the Chicago Relays tonight.

A capacity 10,000 in the International Amphitheater will watch the Irish Olympic champion scurry after the world mark of 4:03.6 which he missed by only a tenth of a second last month.

Four other Olympic gold medal winners will perform in the meet. Delany has won the Olympic 1,500-meter event.

Delany, seeking his 23rd consecutive indoor victory at the distance, defends the Banker's Mile title he won last year in 4:03.8. The world record of 4:03.6 was set by Denmark's Gunnar Nielsen in New York in 1955. Delany was clocked in 4:03.7 in the National AAU Championships in New York last month.

It probably is tonight or never this year for Delany. He makes his final indoor appearance in Cleveland next week and there he must travel 12 laps to the mile. Tonight, he needs to circle the spruce boards only 11 times the same number he did in his near record-matching effort last month.

He has three rivals, including Burr Grim of the University of Maryland; Jim Beatty, formerly of North Carolina, and Phil Coleman of Chicago. Delany and Grim had a little body-checking episode last week as the Irishman triumphed in the mile feature of the K. of C. Meet in New York.

The other Olympic stars defend Chicago Relays titles. Charley Jenkins, the 400-meter Olympic winner, defends at 600 yards. Ira Murchison, member of the victorious U. S. 400-meter relay in the 1956 Melbourne Games, tries to keep his 50-dash title.

Olympic broad jump champion Greg Bell challenges Murchison in the 50 spring. There is no broad jump competition. Glenn Davis, Olympic 400-meter hurdle winner, seeks the 60 high hurdles title.

Don Nolan, Lehigh senior, during the past few months went from the football field to the basketball court. He's from Mechanicville, N.Y.

Snagging Season For Rough Fish Begins Saturday

Grabbing and snaring season for the so called "rough fish" will commence Saturday and continue until May 15th.

This sport, better known as snagging by local anglers, is about the nearest thing to deep sea fishing that can be had on inland waters. Anglers usually use a heavy boat rod or surf casting rod; a deep sea reel with star drag; a linen or nylon line with a breaking test of eighty pounds or better; six or eight ounce swivel sinker; and two size 10 or 12 treble hooks.

With this rig assembled, the fisherman sets out to take any of the following fish: Carp, Carp Sucker, Red Horse, Sucker, Buffalo, or the Paddle Fish — better known as the Spoon Bill Catfish. Casting or trolling prove about equally successful. (By Sam Green)

NBA Reports Records Broken During Season

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Basketball Assn., which closed its regular season Wednesday, reported today 36 records were broken—14 more than during the 1955-56 season which was the previous high for revising the books.

George Yardley of Detroit and Boston's Bill Russell grabbed the scoring and rebound titles, creating most of the new individual records. Clyde Lovellette of Cincinnati collected 679 field goals, one more than George Mikan's 1950-51 standard with Minneapolis, in 68 games.

In scoring 2,001 points, an average of 27.8 for 72 games, Yardley cracked Mikan's mark of 1,932 also set in 1950-51. Yardley also attempted 808 free throws, breaking the 1952-53 record of 794 set by Philadelphia's Neil Johnston. The Detroit star converted 655 free throws to crack the record of 625 set by Dolph Schayes of Syracuse in 1956-57.

Russell, in smashing every rebound record for season and game, was far ahead of the 1956-57 marks set by Maurice Stokes, with Rochester, before the franchise moved to Cincinnati this season.

Russell had 1,564 rebounds to 1,256 for Stokes, and his new mark of 22.7 per game compared with Stokes' old record of 17.4.

Durrelle Clashes With Tony Anthony Friday

NEW YORK (AP) — With a possible title fight hanging in the balance, Canada's brawny Yvon Durrelle and New York's lean Tony Anthony clash tonight in a return battle of light heavyweight contenders.

Late backing for the British Empire 175-pound champion has dropped the odds from the 7-5 favoring Anthony all week to even money.

They will meet over the 10-round route at Madison Square Garden. The bout will be broadcast and telecast (NBC, 9 p. m. CST).

Smith-Cotton Track Enters First Meet

The Smith-Cotton High School track team will make its initial appearance of the 1958 season at the annual Central College invitational indoor meet, to be held in the Puckett Field House in Fayetteville Saturday.

Nine class "A" schools are in the field. In addition to the Bengals, Hickman of Columbia, Marshall, Hickman of Columbia, Marshall Heights, North High of Kansas City, Northeast of Kansas City, William Christian of Independence and Raytown are entered. North High of Kansas City is the defending champ.

The Class "B" and "C" meet

Card Boy Sensation Set For Good Season

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Von McDaniel, a bonus boy sensation when he joined the St. Louis Cardinals in mid-season last year, may be headed for an even better 1958 season.

The 18-year-old Oklahoma schoolboy, youngest brother of the Cards' Lindy McDaniel, started an exhibition contest yesterday and allowed no runs and only two hits. The Redbirds outlasted the Chicago White Sox 3-2 in 14 innings.

Phil Clark, a 6-3 collegian, made up for a mediocre performance earlier in the week by pitching five scoreless innings and yielding only two hits to the Chicks.

Researchers Duplicating Space Flight Conditions

By JOHN W. CROWLEY JR.,
Associate Director for Research
National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — The first of the prototype V-2 missiles was fired from its launching ramp at Peenemunde, Germany, on Oct.
3, 1942. In the 15 years since then, we — and the Russians — have been seeking the new knowledge necessary to enable us to send missiles and man-carrying vehicles far into space. The progress made on both sides of the Iron Curtain has been at a phenomenal rate.

Although this work has been marked by spectacular, initial successes (witness the orbiting of Sputniks 1 and 2) only a beginning of enormously difficult problems. This is because both long-range ballistic missiles and earth satellite vehicles, in achieving speeds that may exceed 20,000 m.p.h., travel through atmosphere with characteristics far different from that in which even super-sonic airplanes fly today.

At the high altitudes and speeds being attained, air temperatures measured in thousands of degrees — higher than the temperature on the surface of the sun — are generated. Under such conditions, the air molecules split apart into their component atoms. The scientists call this phenomenon dissociation.

To make matters more complicated, the atoms may recombine to form new chemical compounds such as nitric oxide. At still higher temperatures, approaching 20-000 degrees F., electrons are knocked out of the atoms of the atmosphere. They become ionized or electrically conducting.

One great difficulty in solving the problems of flight under such conditions has been in learning how to duplicate in the laboratory the extremely high temperatures and other conditions of ultra-fast flight through the atmosphere into space. Actually, until recently, we haven't known how to design and build the equipment in which we could approach — in the laboratory — these conditions of flight that we are already attempting.

We in the NACA, the nation's aeronautical research establishment, have spent a lot of effort on these problems. There are, of course, many others working on these problems. So far we have made two important steps forward:

We have learned how to duplicate in the laboratory, on a piecemeal basis, some of the conditions of missile or space flight.
For example, we have learned how to duplicate conditions corresponding to speeds above 14,000 m.p.h. in a special research device called a shock tube. We have learned how to produce temperatures above 10,000 degrees F. in a rocket-exhaust stream.

We have learned how to build small, pilot models which can be used to demonstrate the practicability of constructing the radical, expensive new research tools so necessary for the rapid expansion of our knowledge.

One of the new devices that already is proving useful, despite the fact that only a relatively small facility has been put into operation, is the electric arc tunnel. In this equipment, a high-current discharge is made to take place in an arc chamber. When a working fluid—it can be air—is injected into the chamber, it is heated by the arc.

This fluid is then expanded through a special nozzle to produce a high-speed stream at temperatures up to 20,000 degrees F.
This device has the distinct advantage over other, older research tools, in that it can be operated for sufficiently long periods of time at very high speeds and high temperatures.
The arc tunnel suggests also an attractive propulsion device for flight into outer space. If a stream of ions, as in an arc jet, can be accelerated to high velocities by electric or magnetic means, a small amount of thrust, or power, will be produced. Ions are tiny bits of matter, carrying electrical charges. They are formed when an electron is added or taken away from an electrically neutral atom or molecule.

They constitute most of the weight of the atom, and if they can be accelerated to very high velocities, their energy can give useful thrust for gradual acceleration and control of the orbit of a satellite vehicle. Such an ion engine, assuming completion of the very large amount of development work that will be necessary, could be used in flight far into space.

Today, we are in many ways in a position not unlike that of the Wright brothers in December, 1903. They had learned to fly in a crude, faltering sort of way. Fifty years of hard work was required before the airplane reached its present form of high efficiency.
And yet we know further large improvement can be expected that will be reflected in the airplanes of tomorrow.

A statement Wilbur Wright once made about airplanes is equally applicable. I think to missiles and space flight. He said: "It is not necessary to look too far into the future; we see enough already to be certain that it will be magnificent."

Matter of FACT

The Army conducted the first naval fleet action of the United States. Under Gen.
Benedict Arnold, a small fleet was built on Lake Champlain.
On Oct. 11, 1776, it fought the British ships at Valcour Island, and nearly the entire fleet was sunk. The battle was important because it delayed the British army in Canada for a year, giving the Colonists time to amass an army in New York.

Steele Music Club Selects Hymn of Month

The hymn for the month of March presented through the courtesy of the Helen G. Steele Music Club, is "When I Survey the Wondrous Cross." The text was by Isaac Watts and the tune, Hamburg.

Sir Isaac Watts (1674-1748) was born in Southampton, England. As a child he lived in an age of religious strife and sacrifice. He was respected and admired as a theologian and philosopher, and a large number of people accepted his teachings. Complaining to his father that the songs sung were unmeaningful and meaningless, his father replied "make some yourself, then." This he did and has been called the father of English hymnody. Of himself he says, "It was not my design to exalt myself to the rank and glory of poets, but I was ambitious to be a servant to the churches, and a helper to the joy of the weakest Christian."

The hymn tune, Hamburg, comes from the famous Gregorian chants. Gregory The Great (540-604) was born in Rome of illustrious family. His music in his day revived a strong religious sentiment. Lowell Mason (1792-1872) arranged this tune from the first Gregorian tone. He was then organist in the Independent Presbyterian Church, Savannah, Ga. After working on his first tunes, he came north to seek a publisher, whom he found
